Chapter 1 by Galaxy

Have you ever wondered what was out there.. Not outside, like out there, out there. The universe is such a humongous place that anything could be roaming around and we don't even know about it.

One morning on the news they were talking about the government finding out about more species that was out there... And I knew I had to find out more...

"Yea, they were talking about new species or somethin' like that" I say to my best friend David
"They could be lying, I mean there always has to be a good story on the news, why not make one up"

"Well, I don't think so"

These past few days went by so quick that I hardly remember what happened. It's usually the same thing everyday, my dad gets me up for school and then he leaves for work, he doesn't really talk about his job much, actually, he never talks about it... What is he hiding?
